Help your students' parents/guardians keep the learning schedule going at home by offering a writing enrichment project aligned with the Common Core State Standards; a project that occupies children's time productively!

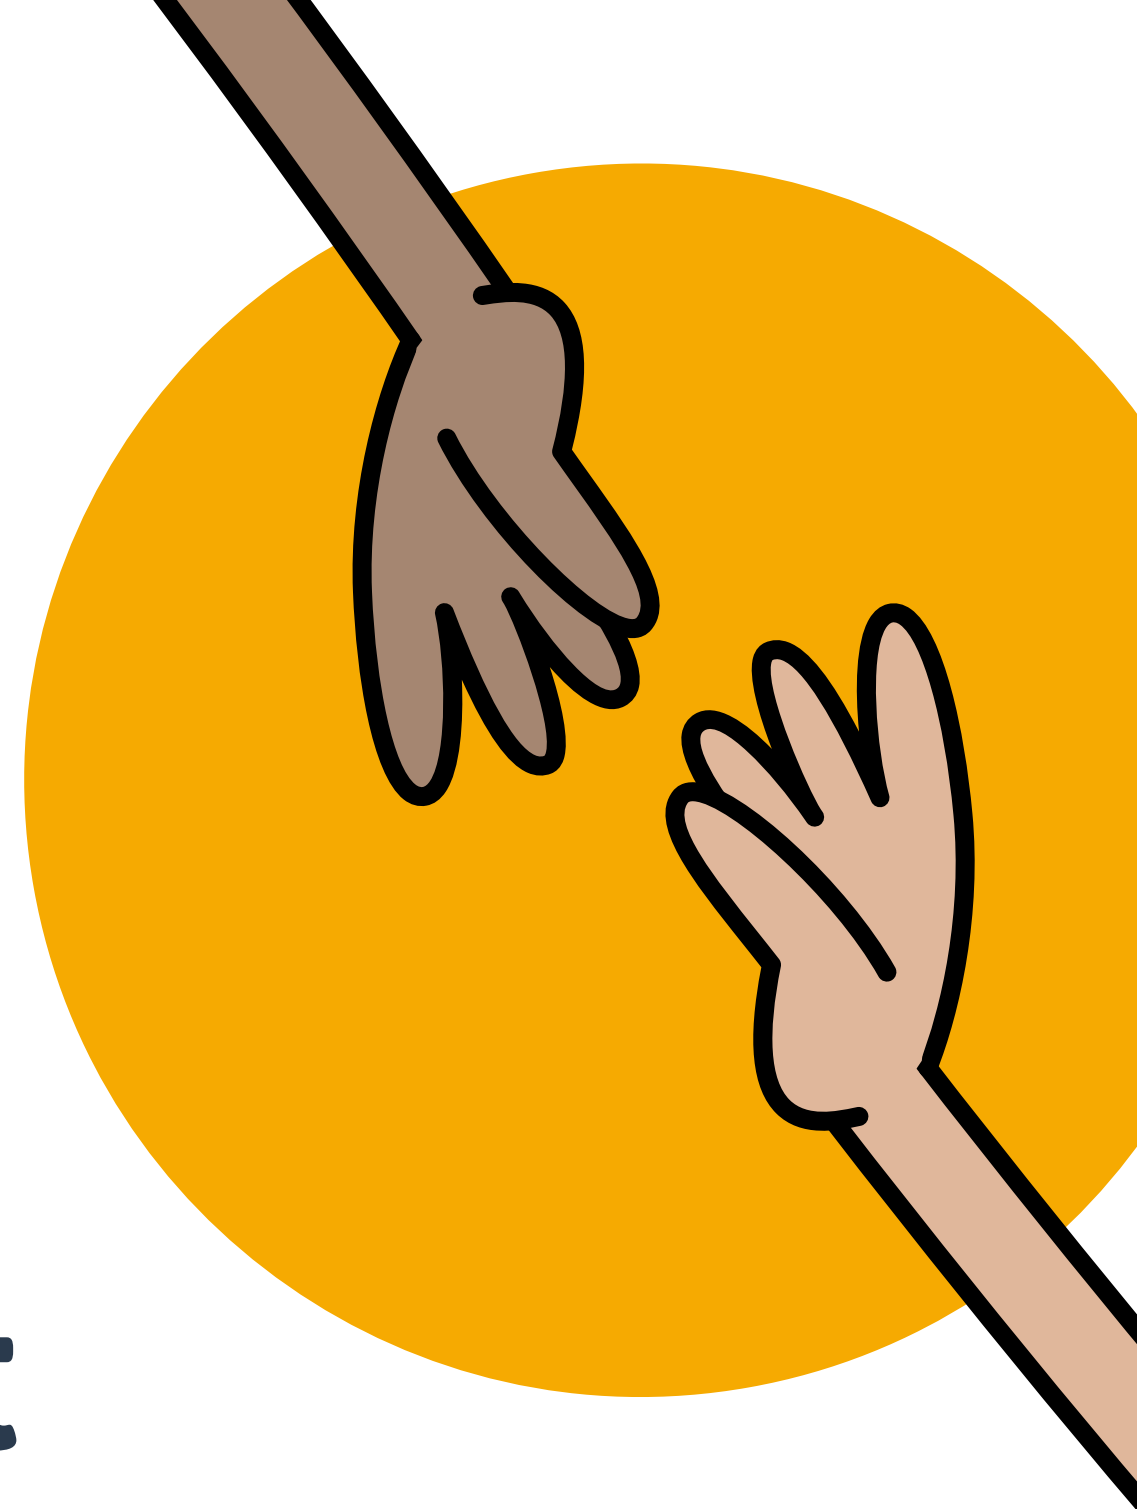

We are here for you!

SuperAuthor knows that periods of suspended classroom learning, such as the current one facing communities due to the coronavirus pandemic (COVID-19), bring a series of problems for schools and families alike.

During this time, families need to reconcile many different things, including their day-to-day work obligations, with spending more time with their children at home. It can be a difficult task for parents to keep their children entertained and focused on their studies while working from home and managing this difficult time.

With this situation in mind, SuperAuthor has developed a new ELA project: SuperAuthor @ Home--a project that can now be done remotely! With it, you can help parents to occupy their children's time with a pedagogical and fun project that is aligned with the Common Core State Standards.

How does the SuperAuthor @Home Project help parents and schools?

- 1 It offers a pedagogical and fun learning activity aligned with the Common Core State Standards, all the while occupying children's time productively;
- 2 It shows families that the school cares about them, that it remains present even in times of difficulty;
- 3 It allows parents to monitor their children's progress closely;
- 4 It uses students' time productively, preventing them from just wasting time watching television, playing video games or using their cell phones nonstop;
- 5 It shows loyalty to parents: your school will position itself as a support, even in this difficult time.

How does it work?

SuperAuthor @ Home now allows each parent or guardian to download and upload their drawing sheets. Thus, they can print these sheets at home, allowing students to write and illustrate their books as if it were a homework assignment!

For the SuperAuthor @ Home project to happen, schools need to:

- 1 Inform the parents, showing how they can use the project to productively occupy children's time at home;
- 2 Register students on the platform;
- 3 Share the students Super Code with their parents/guardians;
- 4 Send SuperAuthor's support content to parents/guardians to help with the book creation process.

After these steps, the parents can start the project with their children. We recommend that students complete their books, with all drawings and texts, within 2 weeks.

Parent Support Content

To help parents/guardians during this period, SuperAuthor has developed a series of exclusive content to help them to develop the book with their children during this period of suspended school activities.

How to Finalize the Project?

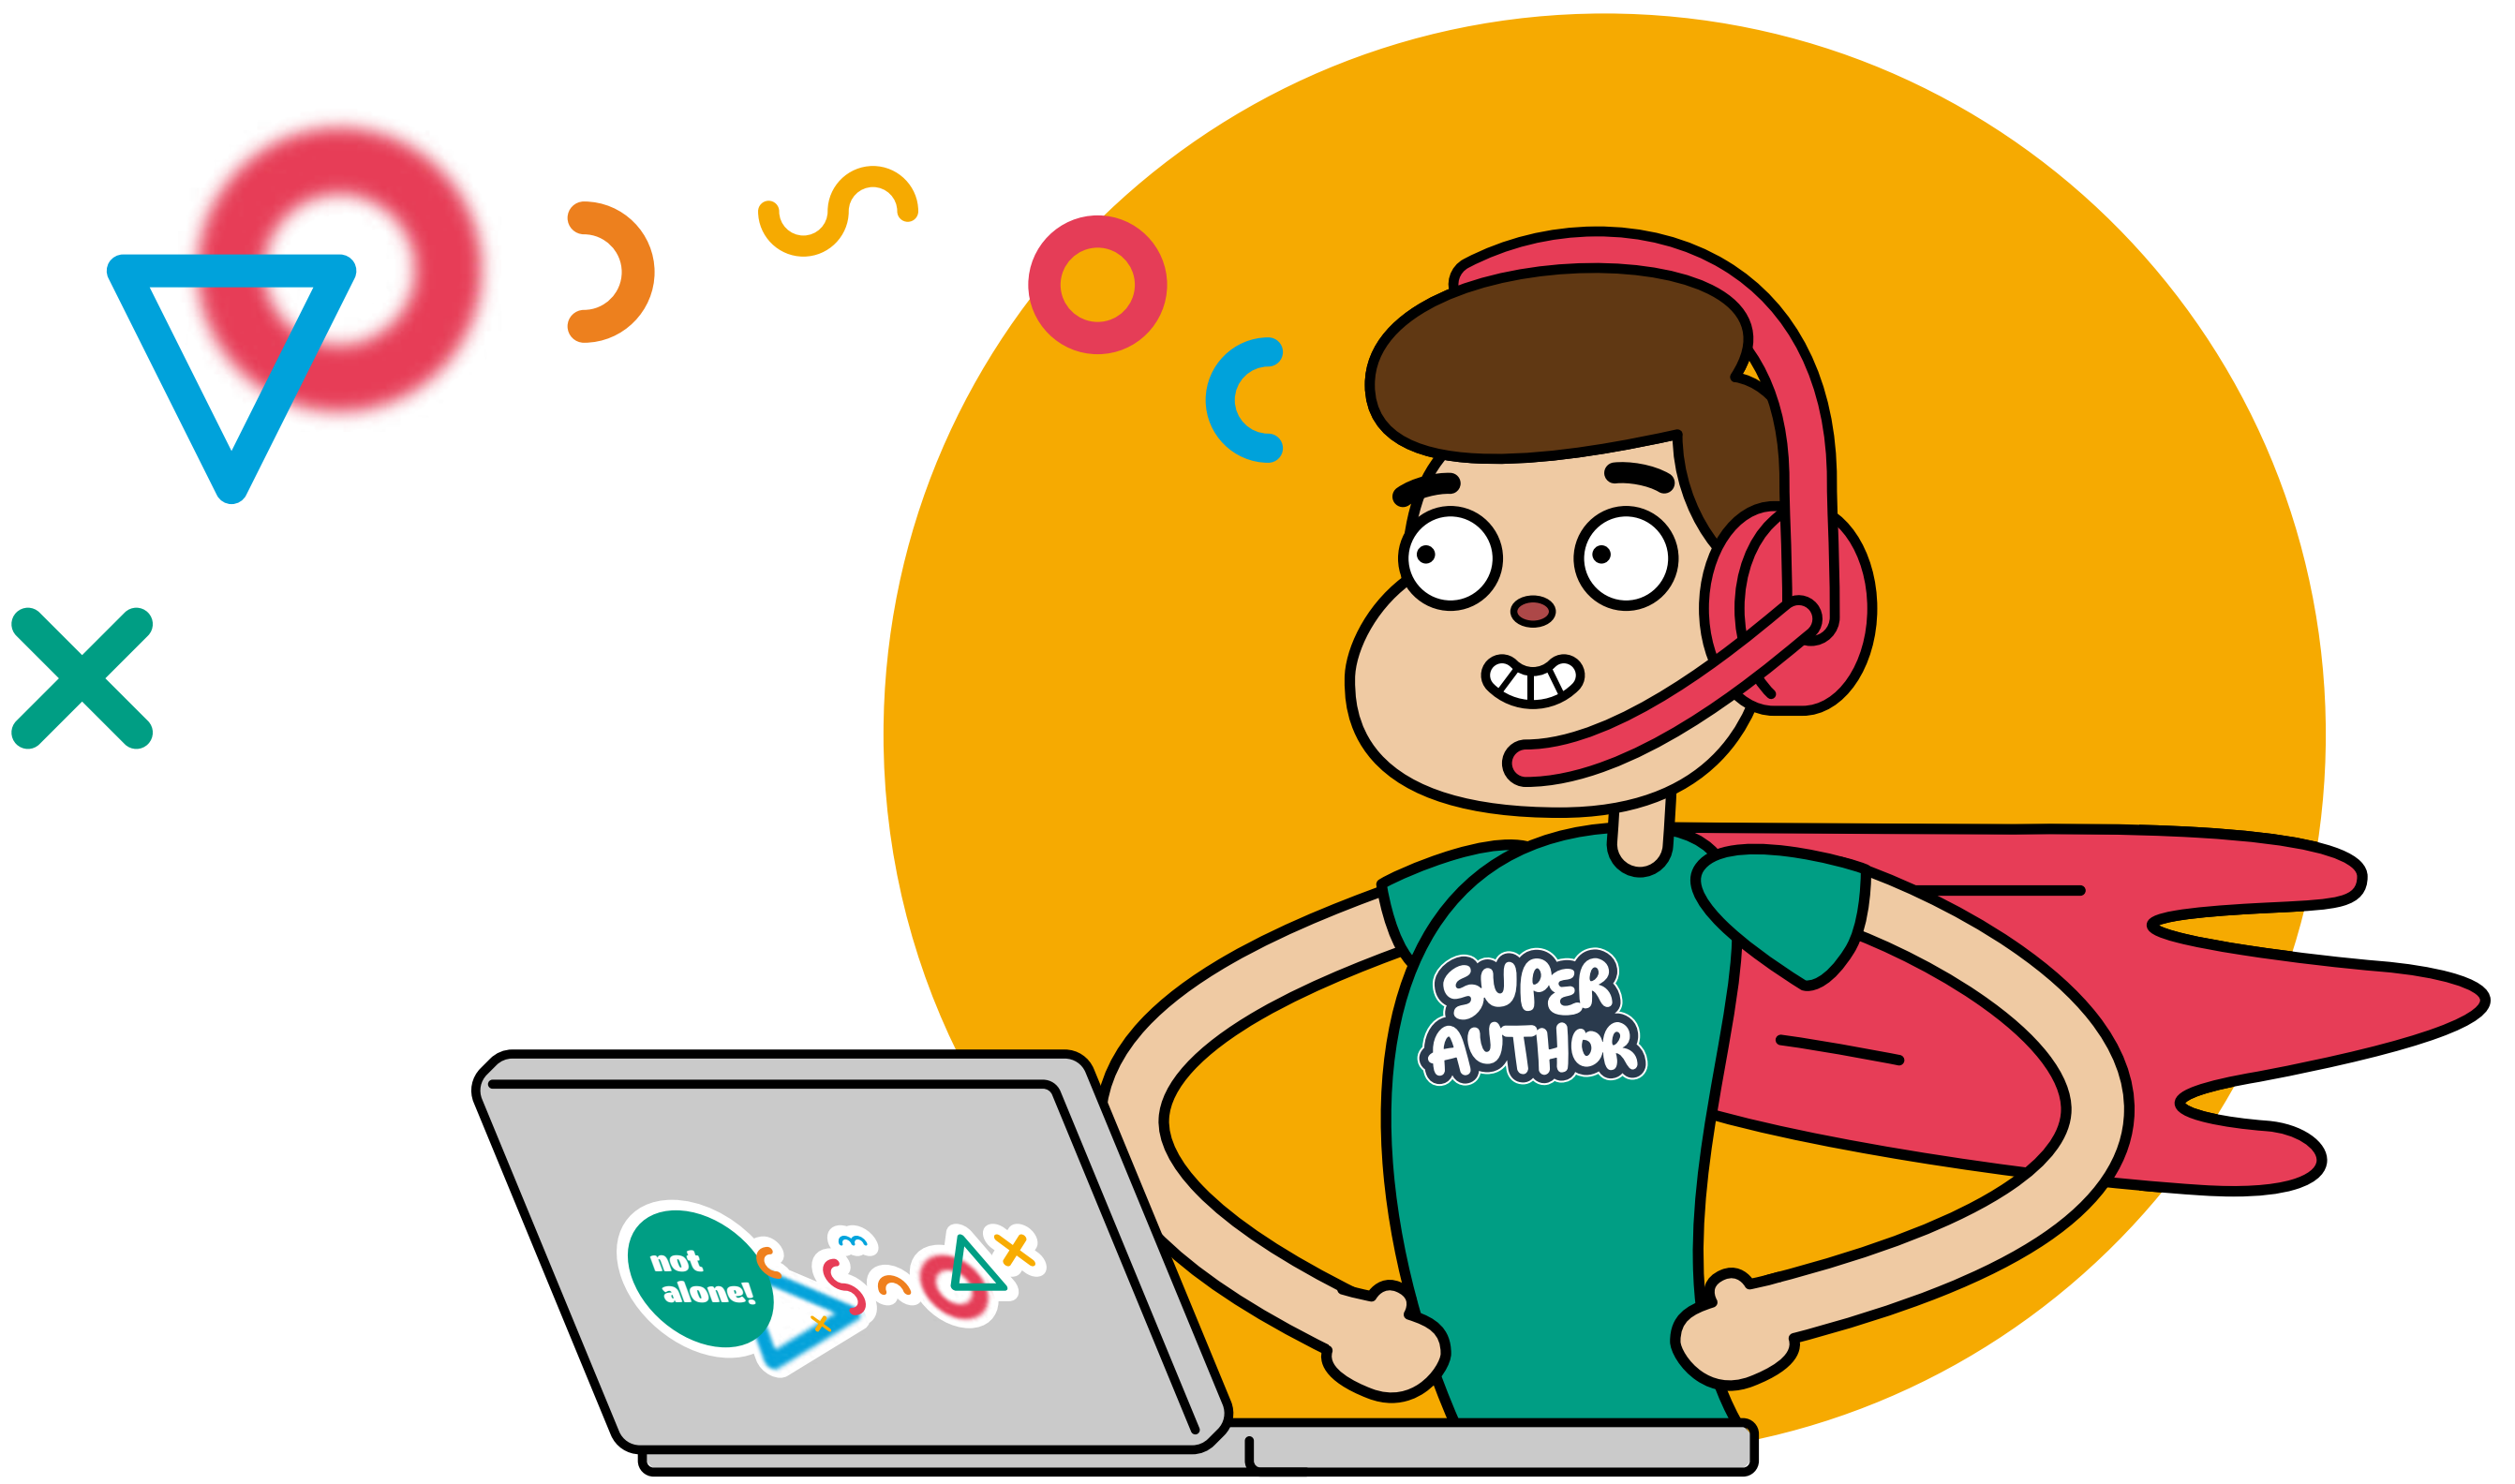

1

Typing out the story text: Typing out the story text: We recommend that parents that have younger children, children that have yet to learn how to type out their stories, to type their stories for them. If the child can type, then we suggest allowing them to write their stories on the SuperAuthor Portal (<https://app.mysuperauthor.com/student>) by entering their Super Code.

2

Scanning of the Illustrations: To make sure the books look their best, the scanning and digitization of their illustrations is very important in the production process! So, we offer two suggestions:

- 1 Parents with available scanners should carefully scan their Super Author's illustrations;
- 2 Children whose parents don't have available scanners can take an picture using their smartphone and upload these drawings to the platform.
