Our array of engaging content—articles, quizzes, videos, plus practical digital learning tools and modules—are designed to educate on personal finance in a meaningful, personal, and fun way.

What do you get?

- An LMS complete with financial education courses aligned to the Council for Economic Education standards.
- An award-winning app to model budgeting and banking powered by PLAID, and to take your LMS courses on the go
- Personalized training and ongoing professional development for using the solutions in your individual classrooms

About Us

At CentSai we believe that storytelling paired with action is the most effective way to teach personal finance. That's why our articles, written by real people with expert tips, will resonate. Our robust team of writers, contributors and editors is only the starting point of the conversation.

Seedlyng's mission is to close the financial literacy gap that exists in our society. We are accomplishing our goal by providing innovative education tools based on our unique users abilities.

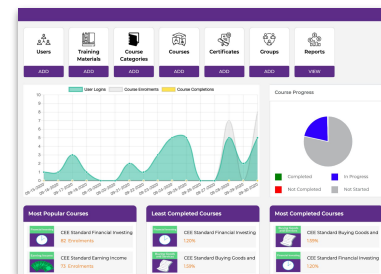

We are more than an app, we also provide workshops, teacher training, a campus ambassador program, and more to ensure you have ALL you need for your students to learn and grow.
