Validate & Certify

A key piece of character development is assessing and adjusting initiatives to keep growing. With The 11 Principles of Character as our guide, Character.org serves as an unbiased evaluator to validate your efforts and offer coaching for next steps.

Schools of Character

For over 20 years, Character.org has evaluated and certified character initiatives in schools through National and State Schools (and Districts) of Character. In a rigorous application and review process, schools must demonstrate successful implementation of all 11 Principles for the entire school community. We score the application, highlight the school's strengths and offer suggestions for improvement.

Empower Communities

You can't create Communities of Character alone. That's why Character.org creates and curates the resources you need to get started and provides the network of support to help you reach your goals.

Character Exchange

Character.org now hosts the complete 11 Principles of Character, examples, a discussion board and other resources all on the Character Exchange. Share your own best practices and questions while exploring ideas from your peers.
